

AHOY SHIPMATE

RNA Torbay Newsletter

Volume 4

Issue 3

May 2015

In this issue

Editorial.....	1
Chairman's Corner.....	2
Stuffed Shirt Attitude.....	2
RNA Welfare Seminar.....	3 -4
Cooks to the galley.....	5
China Fleet Club Part 3.....	6 -9
HM S/M Torbay - Freedom 10 -11
President's Patter.....	11
Silke's Story.....	12 -14
US Navy's Laser Weapon.....	15

Back and forth

Back and forth

In and out

In and out

A little to the right.

A little to the left

She could feel the sweat on her forehead Down her chest. .

And, trickling down the small of her back She was getting near to the end.

He was in ecstasy with a huge smile on his face as his wife moved . . . Forwards then backwards. Forward then backwards. Again and, again . . .

Her heart was pounding now
Her face was flushed She moaned . . softly at first, then began to groan louder
Finally totally exhausted
. she let out a piercing scream . . .

She shouted: "OK, OK, you smug bd, I can't parallel park. You do it!"

Editorial

By Shipmate Norrie Millen

Hi! Shipmates,

I am completely fed up; as indeed I know you all are, with Torbay Councils decision not to include or invite us to participate in the Freedom of Torbay granted to submarine crew of HM S/M Torbay. Given the fact, we are the only naval association in Torbay (unless you include RNA Brixham) and our close liaison with the submarine begs the question "What were they thinking?" or were they thinking at all!

Speaking to some of our members, I can fully understand the frustration and anger this has caused and I personally do not intend to let the matter rest. My major shortcoming is I have low diplomatic skills and prefer to call a spade a shovel. You might say I am one-faced!

The most important point though is that we have missed a massive golden opportunity to broadcast our presence and the chance for some free PR and recruiting advertising. Wouldn't it have been nice to form up at the end of march with our Branch Standard flying to welcome the submarine crew at same time letting general public know of our presence?

I am a strong believer in the pen is mightier than the sword and often write a 'shittygram' to organisation CEO's that have not given me a good service – it works believe me. Having said that, Shipmate John our Chairman has advised that one letter to Herald should suffice which he will write.

Changing subject completely, I was watching the memorial service for Lord Mountbatten in Ireland last week and in some historical pictures of Mountbatten noticed he was sporting a set of Dolphins' I checked his naval career history and he was a Signals or Communications specialist and at no time according to sources I have checked served on submarines. Can any of you (especially our submariners) throw any light on this? Often people sport something they are not entitled to wear.

The way I see it anyway!

Chairman's Corner

By Shipmate John Soanes

I am sure the recent ceremony to mark the Freedom of the Borough of Torbay to HMS Torbay will be well covered on other pages, but I would like to record how well the local Herald Express covered the event on their website with an excellent video clip and first class photographs.

Our Torbay Branch of the Royal Naval Association was initially inaugurated on 26th September 1945 as The "Royal Naval Comrades Association". When the Royal Naval Association was initially formed by Royal Charter, the RNCA became one of the first to join the Royal Naval Association, which means that our 70th Anniversary will fall on 26th September 2015. May I suggest that we should do something to mark or celebrate this auspicious occasion?

Please think about it and bring your suggestions to the June Branch meeting.

Stuff Shirt Attitude

By Norrie Millen

You may recall in last issue, I had mentioned an amusing (to me) anecdote of an incident related to Shipmate John Soanes Chairman's Corner.

For many years, Teignmouth's adopted ship was HMS Pellew, which would visit Teignmouth every year for the regatta, often accompanied by HM S/M Solent.

The day arrived when Pellew was being withdrawn from service and placed on the disposal list, leaving Teignmouth without an adopted ship.

The town council wrote and asked for another ship to adopt, but alas, there were no un-adopted ships available and the MOD (N) informed local council of this. They being a little narrow-minded and being rather silly threatened to invite the Russian Navy (Still Cold War days), thinking that this would encourage MOD (N) to come up with a British ship.

The best MOD (N) could do was to organise a Dutch minesweeper squadron along with their support ship to fill the gap. As in all ships visits the world over, cocktail parties, ship open to visitors and children's parties were arranged. The CO of the squadron requested that local council come up with some guest names including female guests for the official reception and cocktail party. This was well in advance of the actual visit.

Someone from local council (I cannot remember who after all these years) wrote to local paper a scathing article which basically indicated we (Town) were not a brothel service for visiting navies and no guests would be attending official reception on ships arrival.

Quick with the quill, I dashed off a letter stating that council had a 'Stuffed Shirt Attitude'. The ink was hardly dry on the newspaper when around 0630 following morning, (luckily I had the Morning Watch LOL) there was loud banging at the front door. It being on a lower level we were able to see who was banging from our balcony. There waving his medals and shouting abusively was a council member, who obviously took exception to my article. Told him to go away and behave himself.

RNA Welfare Seminar 2015.

By Shipmate Norrie Millen

See closing comments

Having received careful instructions in the form of Daily Orders on the Where and When the Annual Welfare Seminar was to held I thought I would have no problems.

You 'old salts' will well remember how to access RNB Portsmouth (HMS Victory for most of my time then Nelson) by simply walking or driving up/down Queen street and into main gate. However, because of a much higher security level these days vehicular entry can only be made via HM Naval Base Trafalgar gate (bottom of M275).

I was instructed to forward:

- a) my licence plate
- b) full name)
- c) and have photo ID or I would be denied entry.

However, on arrival at the gate, which was staffed not by MOD Plod, but a security company, who were not in the remotest bit interested in my name or checking photo ID. I asked for directions to RNB and the security person just vaguely waved his arms in general direction and said just follow the fence. So I did...and ended up in a dead end!

Fortunately, there was a MOD Plod sitting in a Pussers police car who kindly led me to the WO & SR Mess in HMS Nelson. Digressing a bit, reminds me of the day I was summoned for my RN entrance medical at Bristol (many moons ago) precise instructions were delineated in the summons of train times, where to change and find RN & RM recruiting office. It was such a pity that British Railways did not have train times to match the ones in my letter, I am sure I would have found the journey much easier!

There was no signage in RNB or indeed outside or inside of mess as to location of seminar, the building was undergoing massive renovations and the mess porter (?) was situated in the basement billiard room. He did not seem to sure, where we were supposed to be either; I had gained a group of several Branch representatives following me like lost sheep. He pointed us in direction of dining area and instructed to ask again.

The large dining room, was divided by folding wooden doors, which were closed, and we established our meeting was on the other side, but we could not access it by normal route, as it was a hardhat and safety boots area. Eventually one of the chefs led us through the servery to the side of the meeting.

75 Shipmates attended the Annual RNA Welfare seminar and it was the biggest turn-out to date. 56 Branches and areas were well represented with more than one delegate for some Branches and a few observers.

It was a most interesting and informative day with several speakers dealing with different aspects of welfare. The seminar started with a very interesting and indeed amusing talk and demonstration by Graig McLellan and his "Dog for Veterans" name of 'Boo'. Graig was victim of Post Traumatic Syndrome after fighting in Iraq. On his medical discharge from the forces, he found there was no direct help and support at the time so he started the organization "Dogs for Veterans". These dogs are specially trained to the needs and moods of suffers of PTS. Boo, his second dog will wake him in the morning with a tap of his paw, if that does not get his master up he will lick his face and if all else fails literally drag him out of bed. Boo is trained to get his masters daily drugs or switch on and off lights and ensures that his master washes and dresses. Overall, the dogs have a remarkable calming effect on the owners. So Graig says if you see a person hugging a dog with a "Dogs for Veterans" surcoat, you will better understand what is going on.

He was followed by several speakers including Cameron March from T4V, Phill Shuttleworth MBE - Combat Stress, Mrs Catherine Smith - Age UK, Cmdre Peter Swann - Hosanna House, Alick Brown - SSAFA, Mr Mike Bailey - Veterans UK, Rita Lock - NWA, Andy Christie - RNA Staff

Commodore Peter Swann, a very amusing and skilled orator talked about Hosanna House, which had been custom built at Lourdes for Disabled Veterans and other supportive groups. Each year a group of around 40 are taken by chartered plane to Lourdes and attend all the ceremonies, which includes a veterans parade from many countries. Cost is £1000 per person but if one has difficulty, raising funds there are ways to subsidize the trip. He said, they are often accompanied by five nuns and one is in the habit (excuse the pun) of taking empty bottles to fill with Holy Water from Lourdes. On one such trip, the nun was being checked through Customs and was asked what was in the bottles. "Holy Water" the nun replied, the disbelieving customs official pulled the cork on one and said, "This is gin" "Saints above" said the nun "Another miracle"

The T4V was primarily aimed at Royal Marine Veterans but still very interesting. The T4V Buddy Courses are a new way of linking up with Royal Marines Veterans in your area, making a wider circle of friends, discussing common issues and getting an in-depth knowledge of challenging psycho- social issues. These Courses are a new strategy for Royal Marines Veterans, but the format has been successfully tried and tested at Kings College. Perhaps the best way of explaining how a 'Buddy Course' works is to ask the respective questions that will clarify the nature of the course; How long does the Buddy Course last for?

A: It consists of five separate modules each of 2 hours duration.

I could ramble on for hours, but think I have covered some of the more interesting points. Lunch, which we had been warned would cost us £3.00, was paid by RNAHQ I guess a reward for such a large turn-out. The bar was open at lunchtime but we were warned it was for Senior rates not us - like waving a red flag at a bull, as the senior rates could not get near the bar for RNA delegates.

Branches attending included:

Branch/Area	Branch/Area
Area 6,	Delabole,
Area 8,	Dorchester,
Beccles,	Dublin,
Birmingham(C)	Folkestone
Camberley	Frome
Chard	Gloucester
Chatham	Gloucester
Cheltenham	Havant
Christchurch	Huddersfield
CONA Ton Class.....	Isle of Wight
Dorchester.....	Dagenham
Dublin.....	Delabole
Folkestone.....	Frome
Gloucester	Plymouth
Havant.....	Portland
Huddersfield	Portsmouth
Isle of Wight	R L Spa
Lee and Stubbington	Reigate
Letchworth	Rhonda
Lichfield	Rhondra
Littlehampton.....	Royston
Llandudno	Selsey
Margate	Spennymoor
Merthyr.....	St Neots
Netley.....	Tenbury Wells
Newport	Torbay
Newton Abbot	Worthing
Area 3	Wymondham
Peterborough	York

Eds Note: (?)In my time we had a duty mess president, never a porter.

One very useful item was entitled "Big White Wall". This is so you can 'bounce' your problems of other like folk and just a general friendly service for service personnel and veterans see:

Web: www.bigwhitewall.com

Email: theteam@bigwhitewall.com

Phone: 0203 574 4561

*"Big White Wall helped me get a fresh perspective on what was going on at work."
"It's good to know that other people understand how it feels to be depressed and not coping."*

"Anonymity keeps me safe, so I'm able to tell the world how I'm feeling, and not be a burden to those close to me."

Big White Wall helps to relieve my isolation, by allowing me to connect with people in a safe and anonymous way."

I will have a more comprehensive report, which I will attach to e-members newsletter and hard copy for those that are not computer friendly

Excerpt from RNA Circular:

The Seminar was without doubt an outstanding success with Shipmates thoroughly enjoying the event. Feedback revealed that they found the Seminar enlightening with the speakers targeting specific areas that impact upon RNA branches and their members' issues on a daily basis.

On completion, the Welfare Officers had acquired a great increase in their knowledge from which the RNA will benefit substantially. They are already making enquiries as to when the next Seminar is!

Shipmate Rita Lock MBE organised the event and attracted a 'top drawer' set of speakers especially 'Boo' the Labrador, who did a star turn wandering around the audience showing off how clever she was!

Cooks to the Galley

Pot Mess Norrie's Nosh Recipes

As I received no response to my request for recipes and being snowed under with some personal problems, I extracted this from RNA Newsletter.

Naval Scran from Shipmate Martin Raine features a Pussers Classic - Its Pot Mess - an Action Messing favourite.

The origins of Pot Mess goes back to the days before Centralised Messing (eating in designated dining halls). At the end of each month before allocation of the coming months Victualling Allowance, mess deck cooks would clear the cupboards of all edible food mainly tinned rations and mix it all together in a large Fanny (Cooking pot). On similar lines the infamous engine room Middle Watch Pot Mess...was knocked up by the middle watch Stokers, again with the ingredients being mixed together in a large fanny which would often be a bucket! And then cooked using a steam hose or on top of an evap.

Pussers Pot Mess

Serves 4? (Big Eaters!)

2 x 411g ... Tins of Stewed Steak
2 x 300g ... Tins of Potatoes
1 x 300g ... Tin of Peas
1 x 300g ... Tin of Carrots
1 x 300g ... Tin of Arries (Tinned Tomatoes)
1 x 300g ... Tin of BITS (Beans)

Method

Add all the ingredients together in to a large Fanny and heat thoroughly; serve with good wedge of freshly baked bread. Stoker's method not recommended due to Food Safety regulations and lack of steam ships.

YOU REALLY SHOULD NOT TALK LIKE THAT!

WHAT'S HE BEEN SAY
NOW PADRE?

IT SIMPLY IS NOT ACCEPTABLE IN THIS DAY AND AGE

WHISPER! WHISPER!
WHISPER! WHISPER!

China Fleet Club - Post War Years

Thanks to Ken Jones (HMS Tenby Association) & with permission from Russ Graystone (RAN www.gunplot.net)

COMMANDER C.S.B. HICKMAN, the former Secretary and Treasurer of the Club, who had been a prisoner-of-war, had volunteered to stay on in Hong Kong to assist with the reorganisation of the base and advise on the future of the Club. He felt that the N.A.A.F.I. with their greater resources should run the Club for a year while it was getting back on its feet.

The China Fleet Club in the 1950's

This feeling was not generally supported and a meeting of representatives of all the ships present was held in the Club on Saturday 6th October 1945. The Flag Officer, Western Area, opened the Meeting personally, and explained the position of the Club before the war. He particularly stressed the importance of any decision made by Officers and Men present at the meeting. Their decisions would affect not only the welfare of their ships then in harbour, but the whole future of the China Fleet Club. Admiral Fisher then turned the meeting over to Commodore D.H. Everett, C.B.E., D.S.O. The Chairman explained the duties of the Committee which had assembled at Flag Officer Western Area's direction.

(a) That the Committee should be the Port Canteen Committee and deal with the China Fleet Club in addition to its other duties.

(b) That the Committee should merely be the emergency Committee of the China Fleet Club.

These proposals were voted on and the second was carried on the casting vote of the Chairman.

After further meetings and discussion it was unanimously felt that the Club should be run as pre-war: "by the Fleet for the Fleet". It was hoped that voluntary work would be done by ships' companies and that Canteen Committees would vote funds to help rehabilitate the Club. Admiralty was then approached for a loan of £10,000 for this purpose, but regretted that they could not provide financial assistance since it was the policy in wartime for N.A.A.F.I. to run Service clubs.

Following that news the sub-committee issued a report on Saturday 13th October saying:

"If the Admiralty will do the same for the Fleet Club as they will do for N.A.A.F.I., and the Commander-in-Chief will give shipping space for the Club, similar to that given to N.A.A.F.I., it seems practicable for the Fleet to run the Club". With this report adopted, a General Committee was formed, and the Club was back in action.

The N.A.A.F.I. had started selling beer in mid-September, although that was rationed to 11000 bottles a day. Tickets were allocated to each ship and beer sold to the lucky ticket holders.

The kitchen and restaurants were the first to receive attention by the "volunteer force" and started serving meals at the beginning of November. Towards the end of November local beer came on the market and sales increased by leaps and bounds, though spirits were not available until Christmas the following year.

The China Fleet Club was back in business!

The following years saw a marked improvement in the financial state of the Club and redecoration, refurbishing and modernisation were the order of the day. It had been feared in 1948, that a reduction of income would come with the reduction of the Fleet, and Singapore becoming the Far East Naval Headquarters. But then the "Korean situation" blew up at the beginning of the fifties, and the Club found itself looking after large numbers of naval (including allied) personnel.

Junior Rates Restaurant

In 1952 the land between the Club and the Missions to Seamen was purchased for HK$230,250, and the building erected there became known as the Coronation Annex. It was opened on the 5th April 1954 by Rear Admiral G.V. Gladstone, C.B. The total cost of the annex was $861.068, which involved a considerable overdraft at the bank. But with typical farsightedness, good business soon cleared the overdraft.

The ground floor of the Annex was a large godown, which was initially rented to San Miguel Brewery. It served as their Hong Kong depot for seven years until 1961, when San Miguel had to move to the New Territories when the Club was forced to terminate the lease due to reclamation of the land in front of the Club. It was too difficult to transport beer across the harbour once the junks no longer had direct access to the godown.

On the first floor a four-lane bowling alley was installed and was immensely popular. The 2nd floor contained the Club's shopping arcade and the 3rd, 4th and 5th floors, Chinese Staff Living Quarters. The 6th floor contained the laundry.

It was in 1954, too, that the United States Navy Purchasing Branch approached the Club with the idea of opening a Purchasing Branch for American personnel visiting Hong Kong for recreation. Eventually the third floor of the main building was leased exclusively to them. The floor had previously contained dormitories, but with the reduction in the size of the British Fleet in the Far East, it was rarely used to capacity. The extra income was just what was needed at that point in time.

1955 saw that well known San Miguel Brewery neon advertising sign go up on the roof, at that time, the largest in Hong Kong. "Long John" Whisky added their neon sign in 1960 -more income for the Club!

Renovation and redecoration continued yearly. In 1961 the exterior of the Club got a new coat of paint and colours - Desert Sand with Terracotta Bands and the 25th Anniversary of the opening, on 21st March 1959 was celebrated at a cocktail party in the presence of Sir Robert Black, the Governor of Hong Kong, Admiral Sir G Gladstone, Commander-in-Chief, Far East Station, Lt. Gen. Sir E Bastyan, Commander, British Forces, Hong Kong and Air Commodore T Holder, Air Officer Commanding, Hong Kong. Sir Michael Turner, Chief Manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, and a Trustee of the Club was present together with the Honourable Hugh Barton, Managing Director of Jardine Matheson, and also a Trustee of the Club. The Commissioner of Police Mr A.C. Maxwell attended and Commodore G.D.A. Gregory, Commodore-in-Charge, Hong Kong and its Senior Trustee. Commanding Officers of all H.M. Ships in Port, Ratings from those Ships, the General Committee and others connected with the Club were there to help celebrate.

During the installation of air conditioning in 1964 a live shell was found two feet below the Reception Room on the Ground Floor. The shell, Japanese, weighing 83 lbs and 30 1/2" long, was removed by the Police Ballistics division. Doubtless it had landed in the Club during the battle for Hong Kong back in 1941.

By the mid-sixties the balconies on the first and second floors had been glassed in, and together with air-conditioning of all the lounges and bars this added a considerable amount of space in the Club. Around that time the theatre, which was also used as a cinema, was closed down and completely gutted. A new floor was built, and an eight-lane bowling alley was installed on the ground floor and an air-conditioned dance-cum-tombola hall on the upper floor. Two new automatic lifts replaced the old manually operated ones. That project cost the magnificent sum of HK$1,300,000.

It was opened by H.E. The Governor, Sir David Trench on 21st September 1965.

THE VIETNAM WAR, however tragic, meant virtually a decade of "boom" years for the Club. American and Allied personnel used Hong Kong exclusively for "Rest and Recreation", and the Club, on the edge of ever-popular Wanchai, prospered. And with prosperity came plans for a new Club.

Fleet Club Theatre

During 1970 the General Committee decided that the present Club accommodation was becoming outdated and expensive to run and maintain.

Meetings were held with, sometimes, monotonous regularity. But as recession reared its ugly head, and Defence Cuts came into force it was finally decided in early 1976 to remain in the old building.

It was another three years before the possibility of rebuilding was raised again, in 1979. When the future of the Services in Hong Kong had been confirmed, the Trustees met to discuss the Club's future. It was felt that the Club was well patronised by the Navy and their families and also by visiting RN and Commonwealth ships and that its facilities were undoubtedly very popular with everyone.

The New Club 1980 - 1992

EARLY 1980 BROUGHT the next step towards redeveloping the Club and it was decided to go to Tender for a new Club on its present site, the winning Tender to provide temporary accommodation for a period of 3.5 years. Four companies tendered, with Sun Hung Kai coming out the winner. Although Sun Hung Kai later withdrew their tender, they allowed the offer of temporary accommodation to stand. Hong Kong Land then offered to take on the redevelopment, and this was accepted.

The temporary Club, situated in Sun Hung Kai Centre was very successful, if with somewhat reduced facilities, for members. Nevertheless, long-standing favou rites like Tombola, Folk Shows, and of course Mollie's Music Hall, continued to make their appearance.

The new Club was opened by H.E. Sir Edward Youde G.C.M.G., M.B.E., the then Governor of Hong Kong, on 31st May 1985 and occupied the first nine floors of Fleet House, a 25 storey building in Wanchai, on exactly the same site as its predecessor.

The Club contained a magnificent array of facilities and was fitted out at a final cost of some $43,000,000. The facilities included (from the ground floor up), a Reception area for hotel bedrooms, a multi-purpose Auditorium, Jewellery, Naval Tailor and Gift shops, three bars, a splendid restaurant with seating for approximately 200 people two squash courts, a Bowling Alley and Snooker room and two floors of accommodation totalling 38 en-suite bedrooms. Also provided were a Ladies and Gents Hairdresser, a Video library/souvenir shop and two floors of 50 shops leased to the United States Navy Contracting Department.

No expense had been spared during the fitting out period. From the elegant marble floors of the foyer to the real leather arm-chairs in the Kelly Bar, everywhere was evidence of sheer luxury.

The Club continued its previous role of playing host to visiting warships of NATO friendly Nations, and over the following years thousands of sailors from all over the world made it their first port of call in Hong Kong.

Thanks to the foresight of the architects and the project management team, the Club was able to be a little more ambitious with regard to the production of shows in the Auditorium. Consequently, besides the perennial Mollie's Music Hall and plays by local drama groups the Club now attracted performers from around the world. Among those to appear were The Drifters, Max Boyce, Billy Connolly, Gerry & The Pacemakers, The Searchers, Cannon & Ball, Jim Davidson, The Supremes, Danny La Rue, Shep Woolley, The Stylistics and The Barron Knights. The list went on and on and the shows invariably played to packed houses.

The China Fleet Club was functioning as it was always intended, to provide a service and entertainment to the Men of the Fleet.

The ever-popular Tombola sessions continued twice a week, attracting members of all denominations, many of whom had come along regularly since the end of the war. Some almost certainly still seeking their first house snowball!

Membership was extended to include a wider selection of the local community and at one point stood at some 2,500 Associate Members. This meant that the restaurant and bars were invariably filled to capacity and business was brisk indeed.

In early 1987 came the dramatic news from London that it was intended to withdraw the RN from Hong Kong by 1992. It was at this point that the Trustees began considering the future of the Club, taking into account the certainty that, in any event, it could no longer operate after 1997. After much discussion at many meetings it was decided that there was little choice but to investigate possible sale of the building. This was done, first with the Hong Kong Land Company, the building developers, and later by Tender to all interested property groups in Hong Kong. When the tenders were opened later in the year an offer of HK$160,000,000 with 5 years rent free occupation of the Club floors of the building was on the table, and after much deliberation by the Trustees, was accepted. The effective date of the sale and lease back was 28th December 1987.

The Fleet Club 1980's

The China Fleet Club now had some £11,000,000 in the coffers. The next big question was what to spend it on.

Throughout the whole of 1988 the subject was discussed around the committee table and gradually a plan to build another China Fleet Club in the U.K. began to take shape. Location was the biggest problem but eventually a suitable site was found in Saltash in Cornwall, just across the Tamar Bridge from Plymouth. Architects and project planners were engaged to present their ideas and work began with the ground breaking ceremony on 14th April 1989.

It became clear to those of us who had known the Club in Hong Kong for so long that the name CHINA FLEET CLUB would live on.

Meanwhile back in Hong Kong there was still much to be done. The Club continued its business of providing a friendly haven for the sailors and their families from H.M.S. Tamar and the patrol craft and also to the many visitors from around the world.

Gradually time slipped away however, and in late 1991 and the early months of 1992 the Trustees investigated ways of saving the Club in Hong Kong. Many options were explored and one by one were rejected, until it became apparent that without the support of a wealthy benefactor there was no hope of keeping the Club open. If the Club was to remain after 27th December 1992 it would have to pay floor rental charges equivalent to something in the region of HK$4,000,000 per month. This sum was simply beyond the financial resources available and could not be recouped from the day-to-day business of the Club. It was therefore decided on 24th June 1992 that the Club would close, in accordance with a previously arranged contingency plan, on 30th November 1992.

The death knell had been sounded. A magnificent chapter in the history of the navy in Hong Kong was coming to an end.

As many thousands of Sailors will testify, Tombola at the China Fleet Club was synonymous with a run ashore in Hong Kong. It was perhaps fitting then that the last programmed event to be held in the auditorium was a Grand Tombola evening on Sunday 29th November. It was 'empty the coffers' time of the snowball fund which had been built up over the years by the regular players.

And so to the last day. That well worn cliché "end of an era" was never more appropriate than in these circumstances. The China Fleet Club, which had been a national landmark in Hong Kong for nearly 60 years, had closed its doors for the last time.....

Eds Note: When I was based in HK on HMS Loch Killisport, my run ashore oppo would use the Tombola like we use a bank machine today. He had such luck that on checking his wallet and being short of funds he would say ó I am a bit short, better go for a game of Tombola at the China Fleet Clubô He always won, luck of the devil.

One night a Matelot takes his girlfriend home. As they are about to kiss each other goodnight at the front door, Jack starts feeling a little frisky.

With an air of confidence, he leans with his hand against the wall and smiling, he says to her, "Honey, will you have sex with me?"

Horrified, she replies, "Are you mad? My parents will see us!" "

Oh come on! Who's gonner see us at this hour?" he asks, grinning at her.

"No, please. Can you imagine if we get caught?"

"Oh come on! There's nobody around, they're all sleeping!"

"No way. It's just too risky!"

"Oh please, please, I love you so much!"

"No, no, and no. I love you too, but I just can't!"

"Oh, yes you can. Please?"

"No, no. I just can't"

"I'm begging you."

Out of the blue, the light on the stairs goes on, and the girl's older sister shows up in her pyjamas, hair dishevelled, and in a sleepy voice, she says: "Dad says to go ahead and have sex with him, or I can do it... or if need be Mum says she will come down herself and do it. But for God's sake, tell him to take his hand off the door bell!"

Presently, I am trying to make friends outside of Facebook while applying the same principles.

Therefore every day, I go down on the street and tell the passer-by what I have eaten, how I feel, what I have done the night before, and what I will do after, I give them pictures of my family, my dog and me gardening and spending time in my pool.

I also listen to their conversations and I tell them I love them.

It works: I already have 3 persons following me: 2 police officers and psychiatrist.

HM SM Torbay – Freedom of Torbay

Extracted from Herald & Express by Norrie Millen with kind permission of the newspaper

HMS TORBAY has been granted the Freedom of the Borough. More than 100 sailors from the submarine marched through Torquay town centre this morning as part of the ceremony.

Commander Dan Knight, HMS Torbay, received the honorary Freedom of the Borough of Torbay at the traditional ceremony.

It began outside the town hall by a parade of the crew from the town hall with ceremonial guard, platoons and the Royal Marines' Band. The sailors marched from the town hall, down through Union Street and Fleet Street, along the Strand before circling around the clock tower. The event finished with a salute returned by the council outside the war memorial.

Commanding Officer - Commander Knight said: "Our ship's company and I, and our predecessors over the past 28 years, are immensely grateful to the Torbay community for the support shown.

"Not only to HM S/M Torbay, but to the Royal Navy as a whole throughout this great borough's history. Today is a wonderful celebration of that support."

"As submariners, we routinely spend long periods away from home, at sea, conducting tasks that we can't readily discuss, isolated from our friends and family.

"Those working conditions are made all the more tolerable by the knowledge that we have the support of both our families, and the wider community we serve.

"Today is important because it is a clear demonstration of our commitment to you, and your commitment to the people that serve you."

HMS Torbay was officially recognised as an affiliate of the Borough of Torbay in 1989.

Since then, the submarine has maintained strong links with many associations including sea cadets and RNA Torbay. The crew also take part in Torbay remembrance ceremonies and work with charities and schools.

Mayor Gordon Oliver presented Commander Knight with the Freedom of the Borough of Torbay scroll at the ceremony.

He said: "I am delighted that Commander Knight and his crew have found time in their busy schedule to come here today, visiting schools and charities across the Bay.

"It is therefore a great honour to present this honorary Freedom of the Borough of Torbay to Commander Knight on behalf of HMS Torbay.

You risk your lives to protect us so we sleep at night knowing we are safe.

"On behalf of the people of Torbay, from the bottom of our hearts, we say thank you."

If quizzes are quizzical, what are tests?

Don't take yourself seriously, No one else does

Chief Petty Officer Jim Tozer, serves on board HMS Torbay and lives in Torquay. He said: "Having been in the Royal Navy for 16 years it is a special occasion for me to be able to parade through my home town. Events like today are becoming rarer and it will stand out in the memories of everyone involved as an exceptional event."

Chief Petty Officer Neil Abraham, also of Torquay, said: "I am proud to be representing the Royal Navy in my home town and it is extra special to me that my family can come and watch the parade through the streets."

The Freedom of the Borough historically gives the crew the right to bear arms in the borough

President's Patter

Freedom of Torbay
by Peter Brown

On arrival at Town Hall, Torquay, we gathered upstairs with others and met up with Captain RN, CO of HM Submarines, Devonport, CPO Coxswain of HMS Torbay, Commander CO, HMS Torbay, and others from the Council including the Mayor, Gordon Oliver. We went out beside the saluting base for the arrival of the RM Band heading the parade of the boat's crew with their armed escort (complete with fixed bayonets!).

They all turned to face the dais and the Mayor gave his address, followed by the CO of HMS Torbay and a brief service by an HM Padre'.

At 10:15 the Parade marched off down Union Street and we had a lift to the Cenotaph in Princess Gardens. It was there at about 10:45 that the Parade arrived and the salute was taken by Jane Barnby, Chairman of Torbay Council.

Another lift to Livermead House Hotel, ahead of the crowd from the parade and we gathered in the bar area for a refresher and many yarns of past and present in the Service!

At 12 noon all were mustered in the ballroom area (approximately 150) and a Buffet Lunch was served to a never ending queue! But it all went so well before some of the Crew were off to visit some of the schools in Torbay, not before the Chairman had given her vote of thanks to all who served in HMS Torbay and the CO replied with his thanks to Torbay Council and presented cheques to Torbay Sea Cadets and another Charity.

Peter

Online funnies

ôI did not see HM S/M Torbay in the bayô ôNo because it is a submarine!ô

ôWhy did the submarine not come to Torbay?ô

ôBecause Gordon Oliver has installed underwater parking meters!ô

Wouldn't it be great if we could put ourselves in the dryer for ten minutes and come out wrinkle-free and three sizes smaller!

Silkie's Story

Escape from Behind the Iron Curtain

"You are never strong enough that you don't need help."

-César Chávez

Submitted by Shipmate Steve Jackson our American shipmate

I had promised Part II of Silkie's story, but I think the to be continued referred to other stories at the hospital, so instead here is Silkie's own story.

I was born long after the wall known as the Iron Curtain was built, splitting Germany into East and West. As an East German, I lived under an oppressive regime. I grew up thinking I would never be free to speak my mind or travel. We could not visit relatives in West Germany because the Communist Government knew we might defect. Officially the wall was built to keep the 'enemies' out, but everyone knew it was to keep East Germans captive.

Many people tried to escape. Some were successful, but many were killed in the attempt. Never in my wildest imagination did I think that my parents would risk attempting to leave. Why did they want to start a new life at forty? The answer was simple – Freedom.

Our first escape attempt began discretely. In the summer of 1978, we prepared for our vacation as usual. We travelled along the Danube in Romania until we reached a campground. I had been asleep for several hours when soft voice woke me. I realized my uncle was there. Eager to see him I almost jumped out of bed when what I heard froze my veins. My parents were planning an escape from East Germany! I lay still afraid to breath. The next morning, my mother said, "Silke look who came to visit us" I acted surprised and even more so when they told me what I already knew.

We observed the river for a few days looking for a spot to swim safely across to what was then Yugoslavia. This was no small feat, but eventually found what we thought was the perfect place. Later when we decided, it was time to go I was so afraid that my uncle gave me medicine to calm me. The dose was too much for my young body. I became so groggy that our plan had to be aborted.

The miscalculation had a fortuitous result—that night the moon was full. It would have allowed the border patrol to spot us easily. Sadder but wiser, we headed home to East Germany.

We tried again two days later, but it was impossible to get in the water without being shot at by the shore patrol. We understood we wouldn't escape that year. It was hard living in East Germany after that, having almost tasted freedom.

We continued planning our escape. We trained to swim the Danube's cold three kilometers. We studied the almanac to plan our vacation by a new moon. Lucky for us we had our cabin at the lake, which meant we could take our fins and swim for hours without anyone suspecting. When it got cold, we swam in our local public pool.

Our time finally arrived. We behaved as normally as possible around friends and family before leaving for our supposed vacation. By the end of summer, we would be free! With hearts pounding we drove away.

My uncle met us in Orsova, and we camped close to the Danube. Some fellow campers joined us, and mentioned the border patrol shot at people and left them in the water to break for shore—if they managed to survive the bullets! I was scared to death.

On the night of July 19th, my uncle drove us to a bay. He continued on to a hotel where his room faced the bay, an important detail since he'd signal us when it was safe to start. We sat for hours waiting for darkness and our signal which would be Uncle Dietmar standing on the balcony with his arms outstretched.

I was delegated the task of crawling up the bank to check for his signal. This was a huge responsibility for a fourteen-year-old. It was life or death for my family, and the gravity of it was palpable. My guardian angel led me to the correct window.

Crawling back to my parents, I told them we could leave. Even in July, the Danube is frigid, so my mother rubbed thick skin cream on everyone's arms to shield us from the cold. Entering the water, we set out for freedom. I had no fear; in fact, I had no feelings at all. I felt like we were in a trance, running on pure adrenaline. We swam smoothly, making few waves, my mother to my left and my father to my right. It was quiet, eerie, and unreal.

We had fresh clothing tied to our backs with important documents wrapped in plastic. As we swam, our clothing got heavier and heavier. This wasn't our only problem. At the halfway point, a Romanian patrol boat appeared with its searchlight probing. Reflexively, I whispered, "Dive!" When we surfaced, the searchlight came around again, so we dove a second time. The patrol boat moved on. We were too close for its beam to target us.

Just when we thought we were home free, we spotted lights moving in front of us. A ship! Had our timing been different by mere minutes, we would likely have been caught in its propeller. Thanking God, I swam on, praying my legs would hold out. My mother must have noticed my exhaustion, because she dragged me the last few meters to shore.

We made it! We were alive and free! Our newfound freedom didn't last long. A barking border patrol dog and its handler came out of the brush. The guards ordered us in Russian not to move. I can still hear my mother begging them not to shoot us. They bound our hands with heavy cords, then pushed us through the brush toward the road, to begin walking, soaking wet, to the nearest detention station.

At the station, the guards offered us dry clothes, hot tea, and aspirin. Soon, we had warmed up enough for the captain to interrogate us. He kept us up all night with questions and sent some officers to the river to check for accomplices. My uncle was questioned regarding his identity, but no one asked my mother her maiden name, a connection that linked them.

The next day we went to the city station for further questioning. Another station. More questions. They were going to separate us. Our captors thought we were strangers until after almost a day's worth of discussion, they understood we were a family. Finally, they placed us in one cell. At least we were together.

The police chief decided my mother and I should stay at a hotel. We were assigned a third floor room because the chief said if we were crazy enough to swim the Danube, we were crazy enough to jump out the first floor window. A movie theater across the way helped us tell time. We figured the evening show started at 8 pm. Every now and then, the police chief brought my father to see us and to shave and shower. Sometimes the chief even took my mother and me to lunch or for a walk. No one seemed to know what to do with us, but I strongly believe the police chief's getting to know us worked in our favor.

One day a man dressed in a black suit came to our room. He took us to the police station to meet my father and board a bus to Belgrade, Yugoslavia's capital. My mother and I thought it was a set-up to make us do something stupid and get sent back to East Germany. With great reluctance, we went with the man in black.

We met my father at the station, and the chief took us on the bus to Belgrade. Aboard the tacky, overheated bus, we sat in uncomfortable seats for a miserable twelve-hour ride with dozens of stops. My mother noticed the gun in the chief's pants, but she never mentioned it because she knew I'd be terrified.

We finally reached Belgrade. The chief took us to a hotel for refugees. Expenses were paid by the country-granting asylum, West Germany. We said goodbye to the chief, who was partly responsible for guiding us to freedom. I will never forget him.

We were unsure of what to do next. The attendant told us someone from the United Nations would contact us. About an hour later, a young, blonde, handsome man came to our door. The UN, he said, was handling our case now. He gave us directions to the West German Embassy and money for food. That night my parents were so excited, they could hardly sleep.

When we reached the embassies our hearts raced when we spotted an East German guard. We walked boldly past him to the West German embassy next door. Of course, the guard couldn't know we'd recently escaped his country. We felt like we had escapee written all over us. We triple-checked our surroundings to be certain we were at the West German embassy. Its flag left little doubt; still, my mother asked the guard if we were in the right place. When we assured her we were, my parents began to cry. We were free!

Inside, one of the embassy staff worked to get us passports. I will never forget her name: Mrs. Pempelforth. She told us we would be taking the train to Giessen to register at an office of the West Germany government.

We had not time to buy food before boarding the train for a twenty-four hour ride. Well into our journey, we reached the Yugoslavian/Austrian border. While we rode, my uncle drove from Romania back to West Germany. With no sign of us, he'd given us up for dead and burnt our fake passports. He later said it felt like he was destroying us as he set fire to them. For two more weeks, he kept watch for us anyway before returning home.

Meanwhile, we continued our journey to Giessen. Upon arrival, we discovered we were free to go as long as we returned on Monday. My mother phoned my aunt and told her. My aunt said, "Okay, we'll come visit you tomorrow." Still in a daze, she hadn't comprehended what my mother said. But Uncle Dietmar did. "I'm going up there right now to get them!" he practically leapt into his car with my aunt's husband. We waited for him in the train station parking lot. Suddenly, we spotted his car tearing around the corner. Jumping from it, he ran to us and hugged and kissed us. "Silke," he said, choked up, "I can't believe you made it."

A huge audience had gathered at our parking lot reunion. I glanced down at my uncle's feet and burst out laughing. He wore only socks. He was so excited he'd forgotten to put his shoes on!

This is my story. I've shared it for the sake of my children in the hope that they'll never take freedom for granted, because where I grew up, it could be taken away in an instant. Today, when I reflect that my children and I live in the freest country in the world, I'm filled with gratitude for my parents who had the courage and unwavering strength to risk their lives and mine for this opportunity.

About the Author

Silke Nied lives in Gig Harbor, Washington. She has two sons, 26 and 18, and a six-year-old grandson. She lived in East Germany until she was 14 and then in West Germany until she turned 27. She and her five-year old son came to Washington in 1992 after she married a military man. She had planned to stay for two years, yet has remained in the U.S., for 22 years. Her parents still live in Germany and so does Uncle Dietmar. "Never in my dreams would I have imagined living here. It's an awesome feeling to know that you can do anything you put your mind to and are never too old to do it." -Silke

Florida woman stops alligator attack with a small Beretta pistol.

This is a story of self-control and marksmanship by a brave, cool-headed woman with a small pistol against a fierce predator. What is the smallest calibre that you would trust to protect yourself? A Beretta Jet-Fire testimonial. Here is her story in her own words:

"While out walking along the edge of a bayou just outside of Fort Lauderdale in alligator alley with my soon to be ex-husband, discussing property settlement and other divorce issues, we were surprised by a huge 12-ft. alligator which suddenly emerged from the murky water and began charging us with its large jaws wide open. She must have been protecting her nest because she was extremely aggressive. If I had not had my little Beretta Jetfire .25 calibre pistol with me, I would not be here today!

Just one shot to my estranged husband's kneecap was all it took.... The 'gator got him easily and I was able to escape by just walking away at a brisk pace. It is one of the best pistols in my collection! Plus the amount I saved in lawyer's fees was really incredible."

U.S. Navy's New Laser Weapon in Action

The U.S. Navy has achieved a historic milestone with a cutting-edge new laser weapon system that can destroy targets for less than $1 per shot. The Navy made the announcement Tuesday that for the first time ever the new laser weapon system, known as LaWS, was successfully deployed and operated aboard a Navy ship in the Arabian Gulf.

The weapon, which uses a form of concentrated directed-energy to destroy a target, has been under development by the Office of Naval Research for several years. "Laser weapons are powerful, affordable and will play a vital role in the future of naval combat operations," said Rear Adm. Matthew L. Klunder, chief of naval research. "We ran this particular weapon, a prototype, through some extremely tough paces, and it locked on and destroyed the targets we designated with near-instantaneous lethality." The demonstrations of the new weapon took place from September to November aboard the USS Ponce while deployed in the Arabian Gulf.

The at sea tests are being described as "historic" because not only did they show a laser weapon working aboard a deployed U.S. Navy ship, but also because the LaWS actually worked seamlessly with existing weapon systems. During the tests, LaWS hit targets mounted aboard a speeding oncoming small boat, shot a Scan Eagle unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) out of the sky, and destroyed other moving targets at sea.

The LaWS weapon is also being praised for its cost-effectiveness, as well as the inherent increase in safety for ships and crews because lasers are not dependent on the traditional propellant and gunpowder-based ordnance found on ships. They also cost less to build, install and fire than traditional kinetic weapons - for example a multimillion-dollar missile. "At less than a dollar per shot, there's no question about the value LaWS provides," said Klunder. "With affordability a serious concern for our defence budgets, this will more effectively manage resources to ensure our Sailors and Marines are never in a fair fight."

In the future, factors from the successful deployment and demonstration aboard the USS Ponce will help guide the development of weapons under ONR's Solid-State Laser-Technology Maturation program. According to the U.S. Navy, combat-ready laser prototypes that could be installed on vessels such as guided-missile destroyers and the Littoral Combat Ship in the early 2020's.

This page intentional
blank, but could be used for your anecdotes!